

Work-life balance in the public sector

Of public sector job listings mention flexible working arrangements.

Employees have around 35 days of leave a year including bank holidays.

39% of roles advertised on Jobs Go Public are hybrid contracts, offering days working from home.

Civil service roles mention flexible working most often

Charities
mention flexible arrangements in 81% of postings

Local government explicitly mentions flexibility in two-thirds of posts

Just under half of public sector listings mention wellbeing benefits, such as employee assistance programmes or counselling services.

Learn more at jobsgopublic.com.

